SHAREPROCARE

An innovation network

ShareProCare is Social-Health network, which aims to enhance the relationships between public institutions and innovative companies that develop social-health products and services for the elderly and for people in situations of dependency. The network helps to build this balanced innovation ecosystem by aligning its different stakeholders with the common goal of generating a positive impact on the lives of the elderly.

A social-health and user centric system

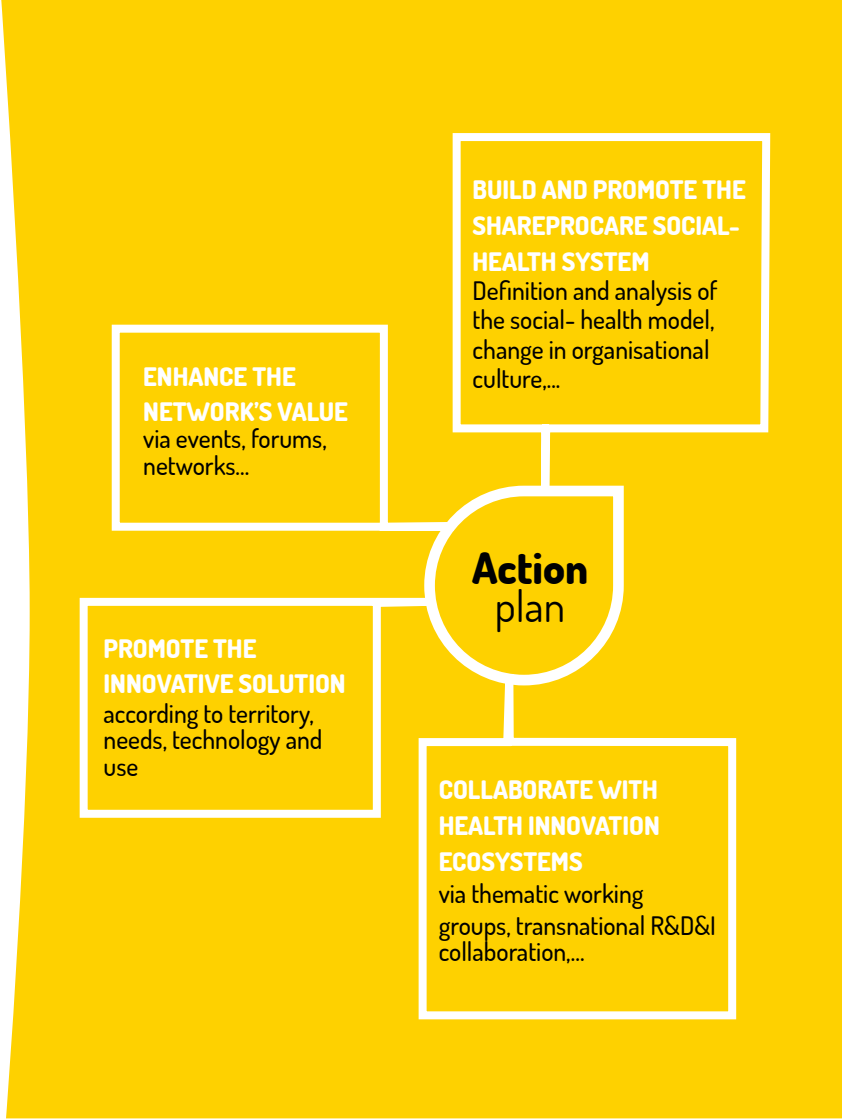

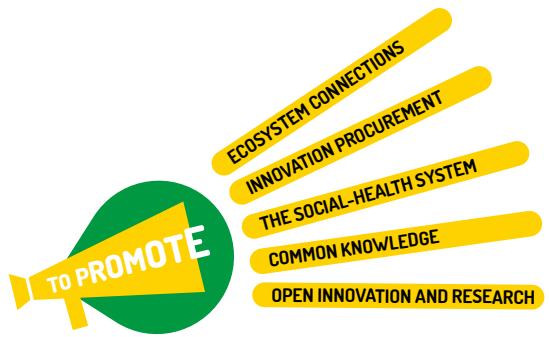

The Community is the first network dedicated to the Public Procurement of Innovation, promoting a participatory and open approach to innovation. We tackle the user aspect using a global approach. We create the right conditions for the emergence of synergy between the social and health sectors and between the stakeholders involved in the innovation ecosystem.

A transnational cooperation

ShareProCare was created on the initiative of the Interreg SUDOE project PROCURA. The idea is to promote the acquisition of innovation in the social and health sectors of the SUDOE area, fostering the Public Procurement tool and strengthening the regional ecosystems and the Research & Development. The founders of the community are from the SUDOE area.

OUR STRATEGIC GOALS

« The heart of our community is to promote Innovation Procurement, open innovation to stimulate research and ecosystem connections and to share common knowledge about elderly people within an integrated social-health system »
